

Young People and Communities: Inside or Out?

Event Guide:

Do communities have a positive relationship with young people? Are young offenders hoping to reintegrate into their community given enough support? Can young people and their communities work together to bring about change?

The Centre for Youth & Criminal Justice (CYCJ) will invite young people, representatives from communities, practitioners and the general public to consider these questions and will share their experiences. This will be followed by a panel discussion on the role and responsibility of the community in relation to young people and young offenders. Examples will also be given of successful partnerships between communities and young people.

Refreshments will be provided.

Venue & Registration:

Wednesday, May 6, 2015
Registration: 4.30pm
Event start: 5pm
Event finish: 7.30pm
Insight Institute, Collins Building (map)

To register please go to www.engage.strath.ac.uk/event/186/

Audience:

The event is aimed at:

- Community representatives e.g. community councils
- Community organisations and community planners
- Young people
- Youth justice practitioners
- Policymakers
- Academics
- Anyone with an interest in the subject area

Benefits of attending:

- Hearing about and sharing best practice;
- Learning about the latest research on young people and communities;
- Hearing first-hand from communities and young people with experience of offending;
- Making new contacts and contributing to the debate and ongoing conversation.

Event Organisers:

Charlotte Bozic
e: charlotte.bozic@strath.ac.uk
t: +44 (0)141 444 8705

Nina Vaswani
e: nina.vaswani@strath.ac.uk
t: +44 (0)141 444 8751

www.cycj.org.uk/