

Youth Offending - Perceptions of the 'Problem'

Event Guide:

This event is an opportunity for communities, young people and researchers to come together to examine, from different perspectives, the issue of youth offending. You can examine a visual representation of the facts and hear from a range of agencies on the topic.

There will be an opportunity for open discussion where you can share your views and learn from the experience of others. The event will also incorporate time to network with attendees from different sectors, communities and positions.
